

Regional Development Dialogue, Vol. 20, no. 2, Autumn 1999

PLANNING AND FINANCING OF RURAL DEVELOPMENT IN ASIA

Editorial Introduction

Harvey Demaine and Hans Detlef Kammeier

Articles

CONCEPTUAL OVERVIEW

Understanding Decentralization in Asia: An Overview of Key Issues and Challenges, Paul Smoke

Comment: Larry Schroeder

POLICIES AND EXPERIENCES

Decentralized Planning and Financing of Rural Development in India, K. V. Sundaram

Comment: Harvey Demaine

Decentralized Planning and Financing of Rural Development in Bangladesh, Zarina Rahman Khan

Comment: João P. de Campos Guimarães

Decentralization of Planning and Financing for Local Development: The Case of the Phillipines, Isagani B. Valdellon

Comment: Josefa S. Edralin

Thailand's Incomplete Decentralization Process: Policy Options for Further Local Government Reforms, Hans Detlef Kammeier

Comment: Dana Weist, David P. Villeneuve

Local Fiscal Capability, Thailand: Cases of Subdistrict Administrative Organizations, Charas Suwanmala

Comment: David P. Villeneuve

Intergovernmental Fiscal Arrangements in a Transitional Economy: The Case of Viet Nam, M. Govinda Rao

Comment: Dennis A. Rondinelli

INTERNATIONAL ASSISTANCE PERSPECTIVES

Systems Experimentation in Support of Decentralization Reforms: Reflections on Local Development Funds, Leonardo Romeo

Comment: James Manor

Policy and Institutional Analysis and Programming Strategies for Local Development Funds, Roger Shotton

Comment: Hugh E. Evans

Issues for Decentralized Planning and Financing of Rural Development in Cambodia, Joel R. Charny

Comment: Soparth Pongquan

The Role of Technical Assistance in Supporting Decentralization Reform: Experiences from Indonesia, Gabriele Ferrazzi and Christoph Beier

Comment: John Victor Bottini